Marching for women's safety

► Hundreds of women take to the streets of Ottawa to protest violence against women

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

Every year since 1978 Ottawa women have taken to the streets to take back the night, and in some ways, the violence they're shedding light on hasn't changed.

"This is the 33rd year," said organizer Valerie Collicott. "It's really amazing on one hand, and on the other hand it's really sad to think that we're still there doing this. It's a message that should have been heard by now."

They marched again Thursday night because violence against women hasn't stopped.

Despite Ottawa's reputation as a safe city, many women still don't feel safe walking at night, said Collicott. "And it's not just being safe on the streets we're thinking about today," she added. "Women are experiencing multiple types of violence."

In recent years, aboriginal women have been speaking out loudly about missing and murdered women. Maria Jacko spoke at the march about her niece Maisy Odjick, who went missing from Kitigan Zibi along with her best friend Shannon Alexander three years ago.

"We're fighting for Maisy and Shannon, because if we don't fight for them, who will?" she said.

After speeches at Minto Park, the group marched through the Byward Market and back to City Hall for an information session.

At City Hall, Velvet LeClair spoke about her allegation of violence at the hands of Ottawa Police. LeClair is suing the police force, alleging she was abused during her arrest and overnight detention in the cellblocks in 2007.

Allegations of police brutality, if true, can be a form of violence against women, said Collicott.

"It's very distressing, when we hear about women taken into custody and treated violently."

WALK ORGANIZER
VALERIE COLLICOTT

The Ottawa Police Service can't comment on LeClair's presence at the event because her civil suit is still before the courts, said a spokesperson. Police officers testifying in the case last week said they did not recall the comments or conduct alleged by LeClair.

City's homeless get $600K boost

► Rogers donates big bucks to Operation Come Home

Rogers Communication Inc. announced a $600,000 donation to Ottawa-based Operation Come Home (OCH) Thursday to fund its in-house Achievement Education Centre.

The donation came as the organization that helps street kids celebrated its 40th anniversary. The education centre will now be renamed the Rogers Achievement Centre.

Executive director Elspeth McKay was ecstatic that OCH was one of 16 organizations to have received funding.

Marking 40 years

- Operation Come Home has been helping kids and young adults aged 16 to 30 get off the streets and make positive contributions to society since 1971.
- OCH is focused on reuniting lost kids with their parents or legal guardians through its Reunite program. In 2010, OCH helped reunite 72 youth with their families.
- Other programs offered by OCH include Housing-Works, Drop-in and Resource Centre, Job Action Centre, and Health Matters.
- More than 350 youth per year benefit from these programs.
- The Achievement Education Centre has graduated 27 students to date since 2006, and 55 students are currently enrolled.

"I'm very, very honoured to have been selected," she said Thursday. "To be one of the 16 in Canada is quite an honour."

"The high school is one of the most important programs here because education is the gateway to preventing people from remaining homeless."

► Shelagh Barrett, senior manager, community investment at Rogers Communications Inc., helps announce a $600,000 donation from her company Thursday, which will fund Operation Come Home's Achievement Education Centre.

'I don't know where I'd be without OCH'

Former at-risk youth who graduated from Operation Come Home (OCH) programs paid a visit to the Ottawa-based organization Thursday to share their stories of how they got off the streets and ended their drug addictions.

More than 17 years ago, Steven Hoeg left his home in Ottawa and fled to Vancouver with a serious drug addiction. His parents desperately called several organizations to help bring him back, which led them to OCH.

OCH's Reunite program paid for Hoeg's transportation to Ottawa in 1994 and OCH staff helped him tackle his addiction to crack cocaine and meth. But the addiction didn't end right away and he struggled finding a place to live.

"I was in and out of places. Sometimes I slept inside, sometimes I slept outside; wherever I could," he said.

► Steven Hoeg stands next to a collection of old letters written by parents asking OCH to help them find their runaway sons and daughters.

After working with OCH staff, he got off the streets and now he's a hairstylist at a salon in Toronto.

Mandi Valdes also had a drug addiction problem at a young age. She ran away from her home in London when she was 15 years old and wound up on the streets in Ottawa.

Crack cocaine was her drug of choice.

She said she would often wake up in the morning and think of how high she would get later on.

Then a friend told her to visit OCH to get help.

She joined the Job Action Centre and a 12-step program to end her drug addiction. She now has an eight-month-old daughter and will study radiology at Fanshawe College in January.

"Honestly, I don't know where I'd be without OCH," she said. "If I didn't have that, I don't know where I'd be. Probably still be on the street, probably wouldn't have my daughter."

Man aims to run 24 hours again

56-year-old wants to beat his 207.3-kilometre record

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

The first time Bruce Barteaux ran for 24 hours without stopping, he was competing in the inaugural Commonwealth Championship in 2009 in Keswick, England.

Now at age 56, the Ottawa man is running in the 24-hour ultra run for a second time in Llandudno, Wales, on Friday.

The Canadian Army major is the only Ottawa-area man among a group of three males and four females from Canada who will run from noon Friday to noon Saturday.

"I basically just grab electrolyte replacement drinks and the occasional gel for energy and I'm pretty much good to go," said Barteaux confidently. "I tend to be fairly low-key but (my wife) says I may get a little cranky as the day goes on."

Barteaux intends to run more than 207.3 kilometres in 24 hours — a personal record he set last year at the World 24-hour Championship in France.

To do that, though, he said he needs a combination of both physical and mental fitness.

"If you have one but not the other, it isn't going to happen," he said.

He recently ran the half marathon the Army Run on Sunday, but this race will fill him with a different sense of pride.

"The ability to represent Canada at an international competition for an athlete is just a fantastic opportunity."

Selling old gold and silver jewelry? The bad. The ugly. The good.

Skyrocketing gold and silver prices has many consumers wondering how much their old or broken gold jewelry is worth.

The question you should be asking yourself is: where do you go to ensure you receive a fair offer? There are plenty of options but which ones pass the common sense test?

Option #1: New companies. Inflated promises. False advertising.

Anyone can post really high payout prices. There are no laws to protect unsuspecting consumers from misleading ads that promise to pay outrageous and unrealistic prices.

They use them to lure people in, then adjust weights, inaccurately evaluate material (eg. say something is 10kt when it's actually 14kt). The bottom line, people end up with less money in their pocket, not more.

Option #2: Mail away your gold. Hope for the best.

Most consumers feel uneasy about mailing their jewellery to one of the many flashy "Cash for Gold" type companies seen on TV. The truth is, several of these companies have received harsh criticism from consumer advocacy groups because of their notoriously shady sales tactics and low payouts.

So, if those ads featuring cash waving "customers" send a chill down your spine, it's for good reason.

Option #3: Recycle Frog, you be the judge.

Recycle Frog is an Ottawa-based precious metals recycling company that has built its business by serving today's more prudent middle and upper-middle-class consumer. Comprised primarily of ex-Royal Canadian Mint employees, Recycle Frog's payout rates are published, and consistently rank among the highest in the industry.

One-on-one evaluations are conducted at their many convenient public events or are pre-scheduled at their World Exchange Plaza location. They're a trusted fundraising partner to various charitable organizations including the United Way, CHEO, Christmas Exchange and The Canadian Cancer Society.

Get a competitive, haggle-free offer for your old gold and silver by simply calling Recycle Frog at 613-695-1236 or visit their website at www.recyclefrog.com for more information.

Ottawa's rep as a conservative government town isn't bad for the local fashion scene, according to an up-and-coming designer.

"People think conservative is not desirable, but I think some of the conservative things that people wear have a certain polish, a certain elegance, an understated element to it that may not be understood in other cities that may be more flamboyant," said Amanda Emmanuel, who runs House of Eenah.

Emmanuel designs high-end, digitally printed silk clothing, in bold colours.

Cage-fighting kids prompt uproar

► Online video shows English boys grappling in demonstration bout
► Police say no charges will be laid

Footage of two slender boys wrestling in a cage in front of a cheering crowd in a British social club drew harsh condemnation Thursday from government officials and children's advocates who blasted the match as barbaric.

The eight-year-old and nine-year-old wore no protective padding or headgear, and at one point one was shown crying.

Politicians and medical experts expressed alarm and police launched an investigation after video emerged of the Sept. 10 fight at Greenlands Labour Club, a bar and social club in Preston, northwest England.

Video posted on the Internet showed the boys grappling in a cage, watched by dozens of adults. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'It's immoral'

Some British cage fighting advocates said images of young boys fighting were bad publicity for a sport trying to shed a brutal reputation and move into the mainstream.

- "It's not illegal, it's immoral," said Mark Lyons, head of the British Cage Fighting Association.
- "If it was in a gymnasium or a club environment, it's quite acceptable, but in an environment where there's alcohol involved and scantily clad women knocking about, it's not the ideal situation for any child," he said. "Any parent who sticks their kid in an environment like that has got to be a moron."

► Kieran Mackinson and Luca Deeley grapple during a Reps Retribution fight in Lancashire, England, on Sept. 10. YouTube has since removed the video.

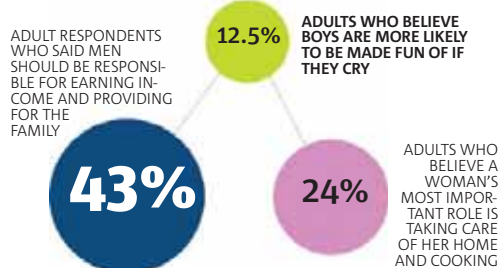

Some gender stereotypes persist among youth: Study

Despite widespread support for gender equality, some Canadians still subscribe to stereotypical views surrounding the roles of men and women, a new report suggests.

Canadian youth aged 12 to 17 and adults took part in online surveys commissioned by Plan Canada. The findings explore perceptions and stereotypes about gender.

More than 1,000 youth were polled, with 91 per cent responding that equality between men and women is good for both boys and girls. Some 96 per cent believe girls should have the same opportunities and rights as boys to make their own choices in life, while 95 per cent think parents must take equal responsibility for their children.

"On the one hand, Canadian youth support gender equality," said Karen Craggs-Milne, senior gender adviser at Plan Canada. "On the other hand, they're still held back by traditional gender stereotypes."

As for sources of pressure to conform to traditional stereotypes,

Craggs-Milne said 66 per cent of youth felt it from peers and friends and one-third from family. Nearly half felt pressure from media.

The unveiling of survey findings Thursday coincided with the release of Plan International's latest report on the state of the world's girls.

Payments for Bloody Sunday

Britain says it will offer compensation payments to the families of people killed and wounded on Bloody Sunday, a nearly 40-year-old massacre by British paratroopers in Northern Ireland that fueled Irish Catholic support for the IRA.

Thirteen people were killed and 14 wounded on Jan. 30, 1972, in Londonderry when the soldiers opened fire on a Catholic crowd demonstrating against Britain's detention without trial of Irish Republican Army suspects.

Last year, Prime Minister David Cameron apologized after a 12-year investigation found that the soldiers fired without justification.

Some families have rejected any offer of financial compensation, stressing they want criminal prosecutions of those who opened fire. Nobody has ever been charged over the 13 killings.

► Hind Ahmas shows the cheque she used to pay her fine for wearing an Islamic face veil yesterday. The fine was just over $160 US.

► Candidate fighting ban on face coverings ► Most support policy

Kenza Drider's posters for the French presidential race are ready to go, months before the official campaign begins. There she is, the "freedom candidate," pictured standing in front of a line of police — a forbidden veil hiding her face.

Drider declared her candidacy yesterday, the same day a French court fined two women who refuse to remove their veils. All three are among a group of women mounting an attack on the law that has banned the garments from the streets of France since April, and prompted similar moves in other European countries.

"When a woman wants to maintain her freedom, she must be bold," Drider told The Associated Press in an interview.

President Nicolas Sarkozy strongly disagrees, and says the veil imprisons women.

Drider declared her candidacy yesterday in Meaux, the city east of Paris run by top conservative lawmaker and Sarkozy ally Jean-François Cope, who champi-

With Islam the second religion in France and the numbers of faithful growing, there are worries that veiled Muslim women could compromise the nation's secular foundations and undermine gender equality and women's dignity. There are also concerns that practices like wearing full veils could open the door to a radical form of Islam.

MackKay's use of helicopter questioned

► Took MacKay from vacation spot

Defence Minister Peter MacKay is under fire in the House of Commons for having a search and rescue helicopter transport him from a vacation spot last year.

The Opposition New Democrats demanded he repay the cost of the flight, which saw the minister picked up in near Gander, Newfoundland.

MacKay says he cut short his vacation in order to take part in a search and rescue exercise with the military.

The air force has three CH-149 Cormorant helicopters based out of Gander and MacKay says he was eager to see the demonstration, which had been cancelled on a couple of previous occasions.

The controversy comes barely a week after questions were raised about Chief of Defence Staff Gen. Walt Natynczyk's use of a government Challenger jet to join his family on a Caribbean vacation in January 2010.

That flight is being reviewed by the Prime Minister's Office, and Natynczyk says he'll repay the commercial cost of the flight if asked.

Brain scans to reveal dreams, hallucinations

- Study focused on parts of brain that respond to shapes, movement
- Computer was fed 18 million one-second YouTube clips

It sounds like science fiction: While volunteers watched movie clips, a scanner watched their brains. And from their brain activity, a computer made rough reconstructions of what they viewed.

Scientists speculate this approach, one day, might be able to reveal dreams and hallucinations. It might help stroke victims or others who can't communicate, said Jack Gallant, a neuroscientist at the University of California, Berkeley, and co-author of the paper. He believes such a technique could eventually reconstruct a dream well enough to be recognizable.

But the experiment dealt with scenes being viewed through the eyes at the time of scanning, and it's not clear how much would apply to scenes generated by the brain, he said.

The paper, published online Thursday by the journal Current Biology, reports results from the brain scans of three co-authors, who had to lie motionless in an MRI machine for hours staring at a tiny dot. The machine was used for a technique called functional MRI, or fMRI.

According to Marcel Just, director of the Center for Cognitive Brain Imaging at Carnegie Mellon University, the results are "one of the most impressive demonstrations of the scientific knowledge of how the visual system works."

fMRI not a mind reader

People shouldn't worry about others secretly eavesdropping on their thoughts in the near future, since the technique requires a person to spend long periods in an MRI machine, neuroscientist Jack Gallant noted.

For now, the reconstructed movie clips are only crude representations, loosely mimicking shapes and movement.

Michael Tarr, co-director of the Center for the Neural Basis of Cognition, called the work a "cool demonstration" of how scientists can use fMRI to study the brain. However, Tarr added, "I don't think people should interpret this as a precursor to mind reading."

Study finds Canada needs a realistic approach to marijuana

► New guidelines endorsed by the Canadian Public Health Association

Canada's existing public health approach to cannabis use is unrealistic and should be adjusted to reflect the way the system approaches alcohol, a new article suggested yesterday.

The piece, published in the Canadian Journal of Public Health, concluded the high prevalence of marijuana use throughout the country requires public health practitioners to adjust their thinking around the substance.

Current attitudes towards cannabis use are too rigid to be effective in the current environment, co-author Benedikt Fischer said, adding more than 10 per cent of the adult population and about a third of young adults admit to using the drug in the past year.

Current practices advo-

BENEDIKT FISCHER,
ARTICLE CO-AUTHOR

cating for total abstinence are unrealistic given the drug's widespread popularity, and less tolerant than public health positions towards alcohol, tobacco and even injection drugs, he said.

Fischer said the system should instead adopt a more conciliatory position, urging people to modify their behaviours and reduce their personal health risks.

The "lower-risk cannabis use guidelines" tabled in the article are modelled on the public health approach used to keep alcohol consumption in check over the years, said Fischer, research chair in applied public health at Simon Fraser University.

"I think alcohol is a really good model, and in fact the model I look to a lot,"

Fischer said in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

Although abstinence from cannabis is still the safest approach, Fischer said users can take many steps to mitigate the drug's harmful effects.

Limiting the frequency and intensity of cannabis use can have significant long-term health benefits, Fischer said.

EVERYBODY KNOWS IT'S ALL GOING TO THE DOGS

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

It's that time of the week again, when we bring you the Metro List, the world's most authoritative review of hot topics around the water cooler:

1 REM disbands after 31 years as the rock critics' darlings.

What else is there to do after losing your religion? Everybody hurts.

2 Meanwhile Neil Young says he's writing his memoir. Memoir? It was only yesterday that he burst on the scene with Everybody Knows This is Nowhere. Yesterday, as in May 14, 1969, to be precise. OMG, am I ever old.

3 Georgia executes convicted murderer Troy Davis despite intervention from the Pope, Jimmy Carter and P. Diddy. Wonder why they didn't listen?

4 Two and A Half Men starts the fall season with record ratings. Twenty-eight-point-seven-four million people have nothing better to do with their lives. Nothing is, er, lost as Ashton Kutcher and Charlie Sheen appear to be interchangeable morons.

5 Palestine goes to the United Nations and asks for statehood. Can't hurt to ask.

6 In other asking news, the U.S. military finally abolishes Don't Ask, Don't Tell and all the gay generals stay in the closet.

7 Chaz Bono dances his way into respect on Dancing with the Stars. Don't mean a thing if you ain't got that swing. Not bad for a kid who started out as Chastity, the daughter of Sonny and Cher. You've come a long way, baby.

8 Loonie goes below par for the first time since January and drowns. Investors everywhere can relate as we all take a bath. Stocks hit a 13-month low bringing the year-to-date loss to 16.3 per cent. Even gold loses four per cent of its glitter. If this keeps up, I'm going to invest "all my money" in dog food stocks, as that's all retiring boomers will be able to afford to eat.

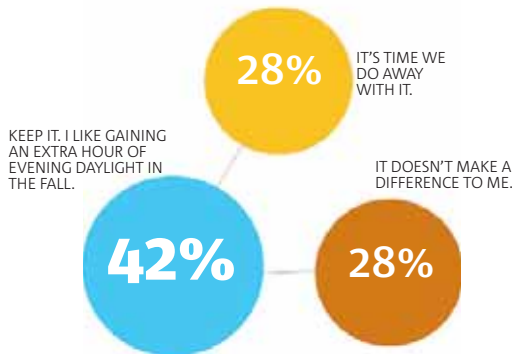

9 BieberWatch: It's a bad week for the future of the human race as Justin announces 'I want to be a young dad, by 25 or 26 I want to see myself, like, married or start looking for a family.' Maybe he can find one in a village in Africa. You know the same place where Madonna and Angelina get theirs. He also has his own perfume fragrance — eau de pabulum. Just kidding! Canadians should rejoice that a low-life criminal monster, Clifford Olson, is reportedly days away from kicking the bucket with terminal cancer, no compassion for this demented animal.

Should anyone feel sadness over the loss of a costly bottom-feeder serial child killer who should have been executed long ago? NO! This trash person has made a mockery of our Mounties, played the courts for fools and sucked taxpayers for millions during his 30 years of incarceration — a fitting end for this despicable hated human being.

There are many more like Olson in jail, including Paul Bernardo, Robert Pickton and Russell Williams who need to be turfed as people like these undesirables are taking us to the cleaners with the high costs to keep them alive in jail.

I do not think many would shed a tear for the passing of this slime.

This story is not about insulting good people suffering a malicious disease — cancer, it is about celebrating the end to a horrific human life who deserves no mercy.

Hey there butterfingers, you've got spam

If you're prone to mistyping email addresses, here's a new thing to worry about: you could be a target for spammers trying to sell you a dream vacation or a diet product by pretending to be one of your friends.

In a clever twist on spam, some websites with names that are confusingly similar to legitimate sites have been set up to reply to any mail sent to them. The responses are framed as out-of-office replies, but sneak in mentions of a new product or service.

Here's a real-life example of how it works: An Associated Press reporter accidentally sent a message to a "verizonwireless.co" address instead of the proper ".com" and got this response, ostensibly from his contact "tom": "I am out of office right now on a my (sic) dream vacation and will get back to you when I return ... You should check this site to see how I scored the best travel deal for my trip." That's followed by a link to a site that advertises luxury resorts.

The sites are registered by "typo-squatters," whose goal is to make money from advertising as people visit the sites after mistyping an address in their browser. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tell us who you really are: Facebook

► Zuckerberg announces next wave in the popular networking site with idea styled after scrapbooking

Facebook is dramatically redesigning its users' profile pages to create what CEO Mark Zuckerberg says is a "new way to express who you are."

Zuckerberg introduced the Facebook "timeline" Thursday in San Francisco at the company's f8 conference for some 2,000 entrepreneurs, developers and journalists. The event is also being broadcast to more than 100,000 online viewers.

The timeline is reminiscent of an online scrapbook, with the most important photos and text that users have shared on Facebook over the years. It's Facebook's attempt at growing from an online hangout to a homestead,

"We are making it so you can connect to anything you want. Now you don't have to like a book, you can just read a book. You don't have to like a movie; you can just watch a movie."

MARK ZUCKERBERG, FACEBOOK CEO

where people express their real selves and merge their online and offline lives. The timeline can go back to include years before Facebook even existed, so users can add photos and events from, say 1995 when they got married or 1970 when they were born.

Zuckerberg took the stage after a humorous skit, in which Saturday Night Live actor Andy Samberg impersonated him. The real Mark Zuckerberg looked more at ease than he has in past events, suggesting he is growing into his role as the face of Facebook.

But he quickly got down to business as he introduced the timeline as "the story of your life — all your stories, all your apps and a new way to express who you are."

Expanding on its "like" buttons, Zuckerberg said Facebook will now let users connect to things even if they don't want to "like" them.

Netflix getting 'like' button ready to click

Canadians are getting a first crack at a Netflix feature that ties into Facebook.

Netflix users will soon be able to share what they're watching with their Facebook friends, or browse through what others have liked.

The feature is expected to go online as soon as today in Canada and in Latin America but not in the United States.

Netflix says it has some legal work to do before the feature is available in the U.S., because of a law that may prohibit the sharing of its users' viewing habits.

In August, Netflix said it signed up its one-millionth Canadian customer.

The online streaming video service charges $8 a month for access to a catalogue of movies and TV shows.

More action needed to stop financial crisis: Flaherty

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty is warning of a second financial meltdown on the scale of 2008 if action is not taken, saying he is frustrated by the lack of response from policy-makers.

The minister issued the alarm hours before flying to Washington to meet with his G20 colleagues in an 11th-hour effort to avert a crisis.

If the issue of a Greek default is not dealt with, "I think matters will come to a head, quite frankly," he said.

"We'll run into the kind of crisis situation that we ran into in October 2008, so one wants to get ahead of the issue rather than react to another crisis."

"I'm pleased that we're meeting today," he added of the dinner meeting with his G20 colleagues slated for yesterday in Washington.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Stephen Harper and the leaders of Australia, Indonesia, Mexico, Korea and the U.K. have sent a letter to French President Nicolas Sarkozy, the G-20 chairman, calling for strong action at the November Cannes Summit to help ensure global economic stability and growth. In the letter, leaders said the effects of the international financial crisis are still being felt around the world.

TSX takes a tumble

Fear of a global recession sent the Toronto stock market tumbling yesterday, plunging about four per cent after the U.S. central bank delivered a blunt warning about worsening economic prospects.

The S&P/TSX composite index dropped 392.5 points or 3.3 per cent to 11,562.51, the lowest close since August 24, 2010. The junior TSX Venture Exchange lost 105.4 points or 6.2 per cent to 1,598.38.

Canadian dollar plunges

The loonie tumbled more than two US cents Thursday as a gloomy assessment of the American economy sent commodity prices reeling and currency traders running to the safe haven status of the U.S. dollar. The Canadian dollar fell 2.08 cents to 97.33 cents US after going as low as 96.51 cents US, its lowest level in about a year.

The currency closed below parity with the U.S. dollar on Wednesday for the first time since the end of January.

Target's blunders continue

► Demand for Missoni items rivalled busiest shopping day of the year ► Buzz turns to frustration for buyers

Target is a victim of its own success.

The cheap-chic discount drummer up so much hype around its exclusive, limited-time line by upscale Italian designer Missoni that its website crashed and was down most of the day on Sept. 13 when the collection was launched, angering customers.

More than a week later, some shoppers who bought the Missoni for Target line are posting on social media websites Facebook and Twitter that they won't shop at Target again because their online orders are being delayed — or worse, cancelled — by the retailer.

Target became the discount industry's darling by making it cool to buy stylish clothes and trendy decorations at the same place you pick up toothpaste and paper towels.

But recently, it has suffered from similar public relations nightmares as its rival Wal-Mart Stores Inc. Earlier this year, Target had its first union election in what is seen as a precursor to more labour disputes nationwide.

Now, customers are blasting Target on websites like Twitter at a time when Americans worried about the economy are easily being influenced by what their friends say on social media websites.

Morgan O'Murray, a Target spokeswoman, said the company experienced unprecedented demand for the collection and is working on correcting problems.

"This demand impacted our Target.com site and affected the shipment and delivery of select guest orders," O'Murray said in a statement.

Synopsis

Pitt plays Billy Beane, the real-life General Manager of the Oakland A's. Faced with piecing together a pro team with a budget a fourth as large as the New York Yankees he breaks with tradition — using scouts, instinct and guts — to find a scientific method to build a team on the cheap. With a Yale trained economist (Jonah Hill) he creates sabermetrics, a combination of facts, figures and computer algorithms to recruit his team.

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

► Brad Pitt's acting is effortless in Moneyball.

A different ball game

► Moneyball takes a potentially dry topic — baseball stats — and spices it up with Brad Pitt and Jonah Hill ► You don't have to be a sports fan to like this film

Richard: Mark, I liked this movie. The synopsis sounds very dry, but so did The Social Network before you actually sat down and watched it. I thought Moneyball took what could be the dry subject of baseball stats and spiced it up with complex, interesting characters, a compelling human story while leaving the usual sport's movie clichés behind. What did you think?

Mark: I liked it, too. It's a sports movie for people who don't care about sports. What really struck me about it was that while most movies have heroes who believe in intuition and passion, the Brad Pitt character sees reason and science as the path to success. It's kind of a Revenge Of The Nerds story, except that Pitt couldn't look nerdy if he tried. Your comparison with The Social Network is apt, Richard, but Billy Beane is played as a much nicer person than Mark Zuckerberg.

RC: Maybe so, and better looking too. The movie moves at about half the speed of The Social Network but that's OK; we're not dealing with the fast moving world of cyber space here but the more relaxed pace of America's favourite pastime. It's a slow build, but the seventh inning stretch is exciting.

MB: Yes, two excellent set pieces towards the end of the movie: the rapid set of phone calls as players are swapped and dropped, and the montage of record breaking wins that come one after the other. But there's an elegiac tone of melancholy that permeates the picture. For a couple of outsiders who turn out to be right, Pitt and his crony, played admirably by Jonah Hill, seem to derive little pleasure from their victories. This is not a sports movie in which guys high five each other constantly. They're all a pretty gloomy bunch.

RC: This isn't a baseball movie and despite the game footage, it's not a sports movie either. Pitt and Hill, in a rare serious role, dominate the movie with their behind-the-scenes stories. Like The Social Network, Moneyball places the onus on the characters and not the technology that drives the story. We've seen baseball movies before, but we've never seen the game from this angle.

MB: And I can't say enough good things about Pitt's effortless acting or Jonah Hill's wonderful supporting work. He no longer needs the Apatow factory to pay his rent!

See it twice 🌐🌐🌐🌐 | See it now 🌐🌐🌐 | Worth watching 🌐🌐 | Yawn 🌐 | Don't bother 🌐

Abduction*Genre: ActionDirector: John SingletonStars: Taylor Lautner, Lily Collins, Alfred Molina

Abduction is supposed to be Twilight third wheel Taylor Lautner's breakout role as not only an actor who can headline a film but also as an action star. Unfortunately, he picked a project that is poorly written and lazily executed. Lautner is a high school student whose work on a class project about missing persons leads him to a website featuring a photo of a familiar face: his own. Soon, a chain of events unfolds that leaves the people he thought were his parents dead and him and the girl next door (Lily Collins) on the run.

In theory, this should be a terse thriller. But instead, Abduction is a teen angst-ridden film. But any concerns about the quality of the movie certainly won't stop his rabid Twilight fans from showing up.

🌐 JOEL AMOS*Dolphin Tale*Genre: DramaDirector: Charles Martin SmithStars: Harry Connick Jr., Morgan Freeman ½

A charming story about a young marine animal that was saved with the use of a prosthetic after losing its tail in a tragic accident, Dolphin Tale is as enriching and wholesome as a family movie comes.

But even with the weight of stars like Morgan Freeman, director Charles Martin Smith smartly allows the movie's subject and star to upstage the human actors and give the story added heft with her inspirational and awe-inspiring true story.

🌐 STEVE GOW*Killer Elite*Genre: ActionDirector: Gary McKendryStars: Jason Statham, Clive Owen, Robert De Niro

It should be exciting, really, given the source material: British ex-military officer Ranulph Fiennes, supposedly true account of the SAS's dirty dealings in the Middle East in the 1980s. Stay with us now: The film follows a mercenary (Jason Statham) whose mentor (Robert De Niro) gets him tied up with an Omani oil magnate who wants three retired British soldiers killed because their covert meddling caused the deaths of his sons. But wait, there's more. Another retired British soldier (Clive Owen) is tasked by a shadowy secret society to keep the targets alive. It's... yeah.

Ultimately, Killer Elite is weighed down by its own moral ambiguity and self-seriousness. 🌐 NED EHRBAR

Faris yearns to be flawed

- ▶ Actress known for kooky, exaggerated roles longs to come down to earth
- ▶ Takes on her first romantic comedy lead in What's Your Number?

NED EHRBAR

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Though she's well known for comedy, Anna Faris would argue that What's Your Number? is something of a departure for her.

"I had never really done a romantic comedy before," says the actress, who first rose to fame in the Scary Movie franchise.

"Usually I get offered these roles that are crazy and broad, that don't seem like very real characters. And this seemed like a very grounded character. And it was such a strong script."

The new film also marks the second time (after 2008's the House Bunny) that Faris has served as executive producer on one of her projects — but she doesn't think you should read too much into that.

"I came on as an executive producer, which really doesn't mean much. They pretend to ask your opinion," she says with a laugh.

"Sometimes they listened and sometimes they didn't." One of the areas where they apparently didn't listen to Faris was on her character's look.

"I had a look initially that I wanted to present as Ally. I wanted her to be a little chunky and a brunette and a little just sloppy — like unemployed, tennis shoes. But then there was a lot of disagreement about that element," she says.

"I understand that visually, it's fun to wear nice clothes and nice heels, and I get that she has a rich mom so that's how we justified her Prada shoes, but I don't know. I'm sort of yearning to play the sloppier characters and to play characters that are a little more real."

And it's becoming more likely to see those characters on screen, Faris is happy to say, thanks to the surge of female-fronted comedy led by Bridesmaids, the summer's surprise hit.

"Bridesmaids had women pooping in the streets. The world's our oyster now," she says, laughing proudly.

Facing yourself in film

► A battle with cancer leads screenwriter to pen film about his experiences starring real-life best friend Seth Rogen in role as... best friend

Screenwriter Will Reiser looks back on his own battle with a rare form of spinal cancer in 50/50, with Joseph Gordon-Levitt standing in for him as Adam, a young radio producer dealing with a life-changing diagnosis. But when it came to casting Adam's best friend, the obvious choice was Reiser's real-life best friend, Seth Rogen (who also serves as a producer on the film).

You were in the unique position of writing a character based on your best friend that would be played by that same best friend.

I'm really proud of the performance Seth gave. I think that he did a really great job. And I think a part of that is Joe — not to discredit Seth, but Joe is so real and so grounded that I think that it made it really easy for Seth to play off him. It was just a really relaxed set. The character's not necessarily Seth, per se. It's sort of an extension of Seth. There are definitely elements of his personality that I incorporated.

Like when we were that age, I was a neurotic mess, I worried about everything. I was really uptight, and Seth would just make fun of me. That was our dynamic, and that's very much true to Adam and Kyle.

And you're not a neurotic mess anymore?

I'm a much different person. It sounds cliché to say that, but I think going through that experience, writing about it, I think it brought me out of my shell a little bit. In the movie, with Joe and Seth's characters, it's not like they sit around and talk about their feelings. And that's very much how Seth and I were. It wasn't like we dealt with it by talking about how we felt. We just made jokes. We just talked about the absurdity of it all. But the actual process of making the movie forced us to talk about those things. Maybe I was this way, maybe I did do certain things. Maybe I did push my mother away and put pressure on other people when I was sick. It was very helpful just to see myself from a different point of view. It's incredibly therapeutic.

So why the title change from I'm With Cancer?

We tested that along with a bunch of other titles, and we just found that I'm With Cancer just kind of scared audiences away, just the idea of cancer. Which is interesting because our whole marketing campaign is really about being honest about it and not trying to hide. I liked the idea of cancer being in the title. Because, you know, when I set out to write the movie, I really wanted to challenge the idea of what is acceptable to talk about in film. Cancer is this kind of taboo subject, and it's almost like the movie can't be about cancer, it's got to be about something else and then cancer is just this plot point in the script. Whereas I really wanted it to be just a meditation on the experience of illness and just go through this journey with this character and really explore what it's all about. It was hard for a few of us to let go of [I'm With Cancer] because we were all really attached to it, but 50/50 works.

FINDING A NEW HOOK FOR SHOWS

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

Peter Hook was on the phone from Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam awaiting a connection to China where he was booked to DJ in Beijing and Shanghai. For a guy who was a founding member of Joy Division's glorious pseudo-Goth, proto-industrial, pre-indie-rock-everything miserabilism, he's a remarkably cheerful guy. After decades of fiscal disasters, alcoholism, bad investments, tax issues and record company crises that threatened to sink both Joy Division and its descendant, New Order, Hooky is still quick with a laugh, which is usually punctuated by a self-deprecating joke.

Hooky's current obsession is preserving the legacy of Joy Division with his band, The Light. For the last 18 months, they've been performing JD's classic 1979 album, Unknown Pleasures, live in its entirety.

"It all started in May 2010 with the 30th anniversary celebration of Ian (Curtis, JD's singer who took his own life in 1980) — I celebrate his life, not his death with some shows in Macclesfield and Manchester. Then I was talking to Bobby Gillespie and his idea of having Primal Scream perform Screamadelica (their 1991 career-definer) in its entirety. I thought to myself 'Gor, that's a good idea' and in a bold moment, I said 'I'll play Unknown Pleasures.'"

A good idea in theory, perhaps, but a surprising number of Joy Division purists were not amused. Condemnation came fast and hard.

"Yes, and some of it has been oddly personal. Being criticized for playing your own songs in any format is an odd thing."

After the Unknown Pleasures mission is accomplished to Hooky's satisfaction it'll be time to move on to Closer, Joy Division's second album from 1980. And then? Album-by-album performances of New Order's entire catalogue.

"I've been thinking 'Wouldn't it be great to play every song we've written before I retire?'"

Peter Hook and The Light will be in Toronto tomorrow at the Phoenix Concert Theatre and at Club Soda in Montreal on Sunday as part of POP Montreal.

Moby and Perry Farrell of Jane's Addiction recently joined them on stage in LA, so who knows what might happen?

► Pan Am takes viewers back to a time of luxury air travel

AMBER RAY

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Once upon a time, commercial air travel was glamorous, a luxury devoid of patdowns and tipsy with the promise of adventure — not to mention martinis. Harkening back to a day when the friendly skies were just that is the new drama, Pan Am.

"It's escapism at its best, at a time when, for a moment, the world kind of opened and embraced everywhere we were going," says star Mike Vogel, who plays a bright-eyed pilot flying his way up the company ladder.

The series takes full advantage of his metaphor — Pan Am, which is set in 1963, not only taps into the nostalgia of the industry with gorgeous costuming and set design and stories uninhibited by TSA regulations, but it also delves into the burgeoning cultural revolution of the era.

"For the stewardesses, there was this sense of excitement and freedom," says star Christina Ricci, whose bohemian character takes the gig as an opportunity to explore the world.

"The job allowed these women to have a freedom that they weren't really given in a regular sort of ► Producing what she knows:

Pan Am producer Nancy Hult Ganis knew there were great stories to be mined out of a series centred on the heyday of the airline.

► She was so sure because she worked as a Pan Am stewardess in the late-1960s through the mid-'70s.

► "The experience opened the world to us and helped us understand and appreciate those different cultures and customs," she says.

► "(There were) a lot of funny fish out of water moments as we learned to navigate through different worlds."

► Thank you for choosing Pan Am:

Though the airline that is synonymous with the jet age is defunct, a New England company now owns the rights to the Pan Am name and logo. Producers were able to negotiate a deal for their use on the series.

role in life at that time," she explains.

"Yes, they did have to pass through girdle checks and grooming checks, but by going through those things they were then allowed to travel freely and ... be in charge of their own lives."

A changed Charlie Sheen?

Charlie Sheen admits that he's putting a few passed habits behind him.

"A couple of things I don't do well — marriage and drinking. So I've quit both," he says in an interview with Wendy Williams.

"Why would I [marry again]? That's not to say I couldn't have a substantial relationship one day, but to ordain it with a piece of paper just feels like it makes things worse, just for me personally. Because those relationships, I want to say they were pretty good before the marriage and then something happens." ● METRO

Scarjo on the prowl

► Scarlett Johansson

Putting her nude photo scandal behind her, Scarlett Johansson is reportedly focusing on her love life.

The actress was spotted taking a cosy midnight stroll in Paris with Kieran Culkin before flying back to the U.S. together the next day, according to Us Weekly.

But then she's also reportedly been getting friendly with Justin Timberlake, as the pair were spotted "hardcore flirting" at a recent party in New York.

"Other guys were trying to talk with Scarlett, but she was only focused on Justin," a source says, adding that the they partied until 5:30 a.m. before heading back to her midtown penthouse. ● METRO

Olivia keeping quiet about her new boyfriend

► Actress reveals that she's seeing someone but won't say who ► Let the guessing games begin... Could it be Ryan Reynolds?

Olivia Wilde is off the market.

When asked by Britain's OK magazine if she's dating anyone, the actress gives a simple response: "Yeah."

While she's not revealing the identity of her new suitor, she hints that he certainly knows how to impress her.

"I like it if the guy possesses creativity and doesn't take me to a boring restaurant or a boring whatever but comes up with an interesting location. I like to be surprised, for sure," she says.

Coincidentally, Wilde has been spotted spending time with Ryan Reynolds — and the pair looked anything but bored. ● METRO

Brad Pitt still trying to explain himself

At this point, Brad Pitt is probably sorry he opened his mouth at all.

The Moneyball star is still on damage control for comments he made about his marriage to ex-wife Jennifer Aniston.

"I don't know what was pieced together or put together. All I know is that my point was, the best thing I'd done as a father is be sure that my kids have a good mother. That's all I was, or am, trying to say. It has no reference to the past," Pitt says in an interview with Matt Lauer for the Today show, referencing partner Angelina Jolie.

"I think it's a shame that I can't say something nice about Angie without Jen being drug in. You know, she doesn't Jewish eats — Mazel tov!

► Rosh Hashanah is around the corner ► In keeping with tradition, this Honey-Thyme Glazed Chicken with Cider Gravy uses seasonal ingredients

You may not think of Jewish cooking as trendsetting, but truth is it has been focused on seasonal recipes sporting local ingredients since long before farmers markets became the darling of the foodie scene. And the Jewish New Year meal, served at Rosh Hashanah, shows this unintended hipness.

Honey-thyme glazed chicken with cider gravy has a sweet autumnal flavour that can be tailored to your region by using a local wildflower honey and a cider made with heirloom apples.

Preparation:

- 1 Heat oven to 220 C (425 F); oven rack should be middle of oven.
- 2 Pat chickens dry and rub 15 ml (1 tbsp) of oil over each. Sprinkle inside and outside with salt, pepper and 5 ml (1 tsp) each of the thyme. Stuff each with 2 onion quarters. Tuck wings behind back and tie legs together kitchen twine.

Ingredients:

- 2 whole chickens (each 1.8 to 2.2 kg or 4 to 5 pounds), giblets discarded
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- Kosher salt, to taste
- Black pepper, to taste
- 20 ml (4 tsp) dried thyme
- 1 large yellow onion, quartered

► This recipe serves 10.

- 3 Arrange chickens, breast side down, on V-rack set inside roasting pan. Roast until golden, about 45 mins. Remove roasting pan from oven and carefully, using paper towels, flip chickens breast side up. Raise oven temp to 230 C (450 F). Pour wine and water into roasting pan. Return pan to oven and roast until thigh meat registers 74 to 77 C (165 to 170 F), about 1 hour. If pan dries out, add more water 125 ml (1/2 cup) at a time.

- 4 Glaze: In saucepan over medium heat, combine butter and 10 ml (2 tsp) of thyme. Melt butter and cook, stirring, 5 mins. Add honey and 125 ml (1/2 cup) of apple cider, simmer until glaze thickens and reduces, about 10 mins. Stir in 15 ml (1 tbsp) of lemon juice; set aside.

- 5 Remove roasting pan from oven and brush chickens with thick layer of glaze and continue to roast until glaze is golden brown, about 10 mins. Transfer chickens to cutting board, brush with the remaining glaze and let rest for 15 mins. before cutting.

- 6 Cider gravy: Whisk 125 ml (1/2 cup) chicken broth, flour in a bowl until smooth. Set aside.

- 7 Set roasting pan over 2 burners on medium-high heat. Add remaining cider and bring to boil. Cook, scraping up bits from pan, until liquid reduced by about half, about 5 mins. Add remaining 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) broth. Increase heat to high and return to a boil, whisk often. Boil until liquid reduced by about half, 5 mins.

- 8 Whisk reserved flour-broth mix into pan. Boil, whisking constantly, until gravy thickens, 3 mins. Remove from heat and pour through sieve into large measuring cup. Stir in remaining 15 ml (1 tbsp) lemon juice and season with salt and pepper, to taste. Serve chicken with cider gravy for passing.

Wine's kosher side

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

With Rosh Hashanah next week, the sales of kosher wines are sure to increase.

Kosher wines are made with Sabbath-observant Jews present during all aspects of the wine's creation. To be approved as a kosher wine for consumption during Passover, the same applies but there can't be any dough, bread or grain near the winery.

With all those rules, you'd think kosher wines would wind up tasting way too processed. Well, in the past many did. Inferior grapes were often used to make wines that were simple, sweet and inevitably more drinkable by a wider audience of orthodox Jews.

Times have changed, with Israel a leader in kosher wine. Israeli wines are typically rich and textured, with the Yarden 2009 Mount Hermon Red ($16.95 - $22.00) a New World inspired triple-blend that balances its berry burst with a nice undercurrent of ripe tannin.

As good as Israeli wines are, kosher wines can be and are made around the world. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Holiday meaning

While the foods of Rosh Hashanah are most often acknowledged for their emblematic value — apples and honey to represent a sweet year to come — they also are intentionally seasonal for the symbolic and practical reasons of wanting to celebrate the hope of new beginnings by using what you have on hand in early fall.

President Barack Obama is showing some love for his hometown Chicago Bears.

A White House official says the president is inviting members of the Bears 1985 Super Bowl championship team to the White House on Oct. 7.

Super Bowl champions are traditionally honoured with a visit to the White House. But plans for the 1985 Bears to come to Washington were scrapped when the space shuttle Challenger exploded just days after their victory in January 1986.

No easy road for Red Sox

► Struggles on field have made race for wild-card spot uncomfortably close for Boston

The pitching is in shambles. The hitting is spotty. And the defence?

The Boston Red Sox are dropping the ball there, too.

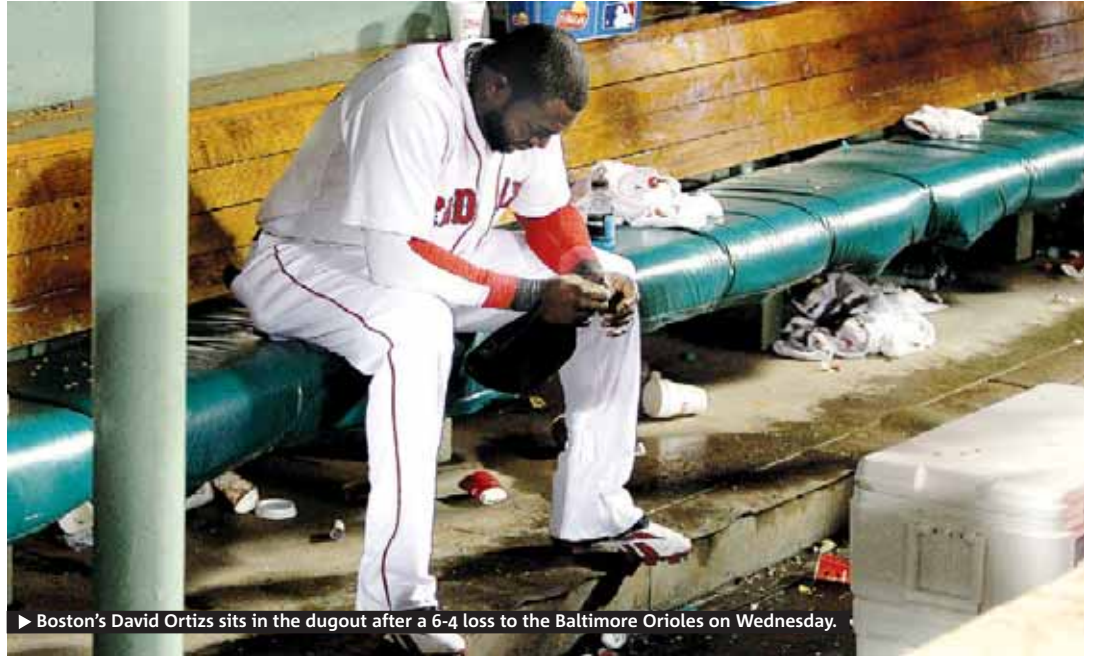

In less than three weeks, they've blundered their way from a smooth ride to the playoffs to a bumpy trip toward a spot on the list of historic collapses. And, somehow during their wacky September, they still have the inside track on a post-season berth.

But, boy, what a way to go.

"I've been here, what, nine years? We've never collapsed that bad," said David Ortiz, his room-brightening smile replaced by a blank stare. "We've been through some tough times, (but) it's bad. No matter what we do, things are going to be bad."

The free-fall began on Sept. 4 when the Red Sox began play with a nine-game lead over Tampa Bay in the AL wild-card race — more like a runaway at the time — and just a half-game deficit in the AL East standings behind the New York Yankees.

Since then, they are 4-14. Going into Thursday's games, they led the Rays and Los Angeles Angels by just 2½ games for the wild-card spot and were 7½ games behind the Yankees, who clinched the division title on Wednesday night.

► Boston's David Ortiz sits in the dugout after a 6-4 loss to the Baltimore Orioles on Wednesday.

It would have been worse if the Rays hadn't lost a doubleheader to the Yankees while the Red Sox were falling to Baltimore 6-4. They got a break from the misery on a Thursday with a day off while the Rays and Angels played. That will leave each of the contenders with six games remaining.

But the Red Sox must go into Yankee Stadium for the start of a three-game series on Friday night before finishing with three in Baltimore.

"Nobody's going to lay down for us. Nobody's go-

54

During the current 4-14 slide, Boston has scored just 54 runs in the losses, the same number they've put up in the wins.

ing to hand us any wins," captain and catcher Jason Varitek said. "We've got to go out there and get it on our own."

A few wins over the Yankees should quiet comparisons to the New York Mets' collapse of 2007 when they missed the playoffs, squandering a seven-game lead by going 5-12 in their last 17 games.

"Anything left that we can try," second baseman Dustin Pedroia asked. "We can play better. That's basically it."

Before the latest loss, pitcher Tim Wakefield snuck a peak over his shoulder at the clubhouse television as he walked toward the field, glove in hand. It was the ninth inning of the Yankees' 4-2 win over the Rays in the opener of the doubleheader.

The TV was off after Boston coughed up a late lead for the second straight day, walking back to the clubhouse to loud boos from home fans one day after the team passed the three million mark in attendance. At the time, the Yankees were minutes away from another 4-2 win.

"We have to take care of ourselves and then from there we'll worry about what happens," Varitek said, "but we control what we do by playing good baseball."

Road to victory leads away from home in 2011

CFL EXTRA POINTS

OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

When does a CFL team NOT want a home playoff game? When that team is the Calgary Stampeders, of course.

Although the Stampeders have enjoyed a tremendous home record in recent seasons and despite being tied for first in the West this year, Calgary has been awful on home turf. Through some unexplained quirk, Calgary has a 2-4 record at McMahon Stadium but is undefeated on the road (5-0). Keep playing that well out of a suitcase and the Stampeders could end up getting what they apparently don't want — a home playoff game.

It's a strange phenomenon that seems to have permeated the entire league this season, with road teams winning as often as home sides through Week 12.

Enthusiasm on the ebb in Year 2 of Maritime experiment:

Touchdown Atlantic could run aground if ticket sales are any indication.

While last year's Touchdown Atlantic sold out in just one day, this weekend's game between Calgary and Hamilton at Moncton Stadium still has good seats remaining in the facility that has temporarily expanded to 20,000 seats.

Could it be the novelty of CFL football has already worn thin on Maritimers who have been asked to shell out good money to sit on wonky temporary bleachers and watch two teams with no connection to their home turf?

That has to be a factor, but if Atlantic Canada wants to be seriously considered for a CFL franchise, the fans will have to buck up, even if stadium conditions are less than ideal.

In reality, someone with deep pockets will have to partner with local government to build a real pro football stadium before they'll be taken seriously. Problem is, how can anyone invest in building a full-fledged CFL stadium and begin courting an expansion franchise if fans won't open their wallets once a season?

Riders and Lions roar to life:

It's fun to speculate about possible crossover playoff berths, and early on this season we were doing plenty hypothesizing about an Eastern team finally stealing a West team's spot come November.

Well, not so fast.

With both the B.C. Lions (5-6) and Saskatchewan Roughriders (4-7) sparking back to life in recent weeks, the fourth-place West team could again slip into the No. 3 spot in the East.

At 5-6, Hamilton is the potential victim, although plenty of games remain to climb out of that hole.
